

LIMERICKS

His Last Bow

Adventure XLIII – The Adventure of the Devil’s Foot

When Devil’s Foot burns, the thick smoke
Is enough to make anyone choke
 And see visions of hell,
 Then go mad, die as well.
Yes, the Devil’s Foot root is no joke.

Sandy Kozinn

Known as the Cornish Horror, Holmes' strangest case
Watson refers to their vacation spot an evil place
 It began when two brothers went mad
 And their sister was found dead, so sad
A card game ended but Holmes played the ace

Karen Olson

An experiment they both did try,
Thus our two heroes did nearly die,
 Some brown powder they burned,
 So the hard way they learned,
It is not easy to death defy.

Bill Dorn

Two brothers laughing, one sister dead
Same poison Mortimer should have dread
 To seal murderer’s fate
 Holmes puts ash on the grate
Holmes allows Leon to flee instead

Steve Mason

